

Mac's Intelligence Chief Accuses Newsmen Of Inaccuracies

Correspondents Sharply Deny Accusations

New York (AP) — "Biased, prejudiced and inaccurate" news coverage of the Korean war contributed to the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, his former chief of intelligence asserted yesterday.

The charge was made by retired Maj. Gen Charles Willoughby in the December issue of Cosmopolitan magazine.

He accused six newspapermen and three news magazines of reporting which "created an atmosphere of tension, uneasiness and distrust between Tokyo and Washington. This is believed to have been a major cause for the MacArthur-Truman split."

President Truman fired MacArthur last April.

Willoughby said the six correspondents also gave "aid and comfort to the enemy." The men he named were:

Joseph Alsop, syndicate columnist; Hanson Baldwin, military correspondent of the New York Times; Homer Bigart, war correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune; Hal Boyle, war correspondent and columnist of the Associated Press; Drew Pearson, syndicate columnist; and Christopher Rand, former member of the Herald Tribune staff in Korea, since resigned.

They denied Willoughby's charges and reiterated their beliefs that faulty intelligence reports by him preceded the U.N. surprise setback in northern Korea last year.

Willoughby's article was accompanied by a foreword signed by MacArthur. It said:

Gen. Willoughby's article is of the greatest importance because the entire effort to distort and misrepresent the causes leading to the existing situation represents one of the most scandalous propaganda efforts to pervert the truth in recent times."

Willoughby also accused three news-magazines, Time, News Week and U. S. News and World Report of having "appeared to go out of their way to create defeatist thought patterns, and to belittle the country's armed forces."

While excepting some major sections of the American press from his assertions, Willoughby said of columnists and commentators:

"These raggickers of modern literature have developed an insufferable but peculiarly American characteristic: They have come to believe they are omniscient. Already deep in the fold of yellow journalism, they thrive on sensational exaggerations. Accuracy is unimportant. There are notable exceptions."

He said Alsop, Baldwin, Bigart, Boyle, Pearson and Rand were "among" the correspondents who were not careful in their writings.

"During the most difficult days in Korea, these men were often inaccurate, biased, prejudiced and petulant; they confused an unhappy public. The corrosive effect of their irresponsible reporting was equal to that of calculated defeatism, even if such was not intended. Their reporting furnished aid and comfort to the enemy."

As against these accusation, Willoughby said the press associations were "generally accurate and balanced." The New York Times, he said, published some "discerning editorials," and he said the Hearst and Scripps-Howard newspapers "have invariably been reliable and well informed." Cosmopolitan magazine is a Hearst publication.

But the ex-intelligence chief said "the entire Herald Tribune crowd, with the possible exception of the beautiful Marguerite Higgins, seemed bent on castigating their own Army."

Frank Kelley, foreign editor of that newspaper replied yesterday: "Mr. Bigart continues to be held in the highest respect by his journalistic colleagues. His brilliant frontline reporting in Korea brought to him, as to Miss Higgins, the coveted Pulitzer prize last Spring."

Willoughby centered his fire on the double charge that correspondents and news-magazines had "belittled the Eighth Army, and that they were wrong in calling the Yalu river withdrawal a 'defeat,' plus exaggerating the casualties.

Correspondents, replying to Willoughby, said they had criticized Willoughby's work as an intelligence officer in Korea last year. And they said they had attacked MacArthur for his strategic moves, which preceded the sudden withdrawal from the Yalu river region, last year.

But they denied having criticized the U. N. army, as such, or the actions of the individual soldiers.

"Far be it from me to ascribe a deliberate intent on the part of these reporters," Willoughby said last night. "They merely reported what they believed unquestionably was the impact of what they saw. However, they have responsibility to the public and to the reputation of the Eighth Army."

The Army's retreat, he added, "was not a defeat, it was not the greatest military disaster in the annals of American history. It was an ordinary common-sense and skillfully executed withdrawal."

Tax-Troubled Manufacturer Got Relief After Taking Caudle, Oliphant On Trip

Washington, (AP)—A manufacturer in tax trouble got "relief" after taking Theron Lamar Caudle and Charles Oliphant, chief counsel for the Internal Revenue bureau, on a de luxe fishing jaunt to Florida, a House subcommittee was informed yesterday.

The story was told by Caudle, ousted tax fraud prosecutor, and by counsel for a House ways and means subcommittee.

Flying Boat Crashes; 11 Men Killed

San Diego, Calif., (AP)—A Navy PBM (Martin Mariner) seaplane, carrying 11 persons, crashed at sea off San Diego yesterday, 25 minutes after taking off from the Naval Air station. There were no survivors.

Pacific Fleet Air Force headquarters said the flying boat, on a routine training flight, broke in two when it struck the water, seven miles west of San Diego. It did not burn, but sank soon after crashing. Four bodies were recovered. Cause of the crash was not immediately determined.

Three officers and eight enlisted crewmen were aboard the plane, which was attached to Fleet Air Wing 14.

March Air Base, Calif., (AP)—A B-29 bomber caught fire in the air and crashed near here yesterday, but its crew of 13 parachuted to safety.

Lt. E. J. Sancholtz, the first pilot, said he ordered the crew out of the plane when a wing blazed up as the big ship headed in for a landing.

Ocala, Fla., (AP)—An eastern airliner collided with a small plane near the Ocala airport yesterday, sending the pilot of the smaller craft to his death.

Rev. John Macy, minister from Anthony, Fla., died when his single-place Civil Air patrol craft crashed after the propeller of the passenger ship clipped the CAP plane.

Trees For Greenland

Copenhagen, (AP)—They have no Christmas trees on Greenland, so yesterday a ship left Copenhagen for Denmark's great Arctic colony—1,200 miles away—with hundreds of Christmas trees on its deck.

New Body Armor For Troops Might Prevent Most Deaths

New York (AP) — New body armor might prevent 50 to 75 per cent of death of fighting men in Korean battle, Col. John R. Wood, Army Medical Corps, said yesterday.

The armor is eight-pound vests, made of layers of nylon or fiberglass cemented by plastics. They protect the chest and abdomen.

Fifty such suits were tested successfully in Korea. Most of a regiment is expected to get the armor vests soon for more tests, said Colonel Wood, chairman of the Army's Medical Research and Development board, Army Surgeon-General's office. He spoke at a meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' association.

The vests can stop missiles flying at speeds of 1,000 to 1,500 feet per second, he said.

A study of battlefield deaths and wounds showed 75 per cent were caused by missiles speeding 1,000 feet or less per second. The vests could stop them, potentially saving up to 75 per cent of men hit in the trunk.

Machinegun and rifle bullets start out at much higher speeds. Speed falls off with distance, or by deflection. Fragments from shells start out fast, but lose speed quickly.

The vests are worn outside of some clothing, as a cushion against impact. Arms, legs, and neck still are exposed. Helmets protect the head against missiles up to 1,500 feet per second.

Race Track Hearing Opens Before Court

An action aimed at closing the West End race track at Gilbert began yesterday before more than 100 spectators in Monroe county court.

Spectators, mostly from the Gilbert area, were alert and attentive throughout the first day's testimony, which began at 10 a. m. and ended at 4:30 p. m.

One interruption occurred when the counsels involved and President Judge Fred W. Davis left the court house to drive to Gilbert and inspect the premises of the Salem Evangelical and Reformed church, adjoining the race track.

The church, and another — the Lutheran church—have asked a permanent injunction against operation of the track, particularly on Sundays.

Some 20 West End citizens are also backing the equity action brought by the churches. Supporting the suit are the West End Lions club, Progressive Women's club, Folk and Chestnut Hill township school boards, and scores of citizens.

Defendants in the suit are Caroline and Joseph Riboldi, Pleasant Valley Inc., and the West End Automobile Racing association. They have been operating stock car races on the track throughout the summer.

Representing the defendants is Russell L. Mervine, Stroudsburg. Attorneys for the church groups are George G. Parry, Philadelphia, chief counsel, Kennard Lewis, C. R. Bensinger Jr., George T. Robinson and Edward DePuy all of Stroudsburg.

Gist of the day's testimony—all by witnesses of the plaintiffs—was that the movement of the racing cars around the track caused a noise and dust nuisance.

The dirt track is located on Route 209, north side. The lands of both churches are sandwiched between it and Legislative Route 45003.

Adjoining both track and church lands is the Union cemetery.

Closest to the east end of the track is property of the Reformed church—whose guild hall is about 50 feet from the track's edge, and whose chapel is about 65 feet from the track.

Bulk of the day's testimony was by Rev. Allison P. Albright, pastor of the Reformed church.

Earlier witnesses during the morning session were John G. Garcia, who surveyed the area and supplied maps used in the courtroom to show the position of church properties and the track; and Patrick J. Cunningham, whose aerial photo of the area was entered as an exhibit.

Rev. Albright testified "we pleaded them not to build the track, but they replied we had no right to tell them what to do with their property."

The pastor said the first bulldozers began building the track April 16, and the first racing started June 17—a Sunday.

At the time — about 2 p. m. — children were rehearsing a religious program given annually, the pastor said. The children were so upset by the dust and noise that the rehearsal was halted and the youngsters dismissed, he said.

A resumption of the rehearsal on June 19 was again called off because of the heavy dust raised by racing cars, the pastor said. Cars passing on the highway at 7:30 p. m. had to turn on their headlights, he claimed.

"Rev. James K. Laubach (Lutheran church pastor) and I reported it to the State police as a traffic hazard," said the pastor.

Nuisance Bill Sent To Fine

Harrisburg (AP) — A bill giving fish wardens the power to arrest anyone damaging property along fishing streams was passed finally yesterday by the legislature.

The senate concurred in house amendments to the bill and sent it to Gov. John S. Fine for action.

It would authorize the wardens to make arrests for a wide variety of nuisance actions along streams, such as damaging fences, dumping garbage and walking through planted fields.

CANADENSIS—A highly unwelcome visitor was this car which crashed through the front door of "The Crossroads" here and came to rest in the restaurant's dining section. (Story on Page 2) The accident occurred a few minutes before midnight Monday. There were no injuries; the dining room was closed. Driver of the car was charged with reckless driving yesterday. Allies Down Four MIGs, Lose One F-80

Seoul, Korea, Wednesday (AP) — Allied aircraft knocked four Communist MIG-15 jets from the north-west Korea skies and damaged four more in six separate engagements yesterday.

The Allies officially acknowledged the loss of one U. S. F-80 Shooting Star.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force, reporting the results, said the Reds had lost from 80 to 100 of their red-nosed jet fighters in the air at various times. These were opposed by 83 U. S. fighters of all types.

While the air war erupted anew, fighting on the ground fell off sharply yesterday as truce negotiations at Panmunjon showed more promise of success.

The Shooting Star went down in the first battle of the day when four F-80s flying cover for a rail bombing mission were jumped by 16 MIGs. The Shooting Stars damaged one MIG and protected the bomb-laden fighters below, the Air Force said.

In five other engagements, the Air Force added, all American planes returned safely to their bases.

Rail Union Bolts Hearing

Washington, (AP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen yesterday walked out of a hearing on its two-year-old dispute with the nation's railroads, saying President Truman's appointment of an emergency board was "a mockery."

The union had threatened a progressive nation-wide walkout beginning Nov. 8, and Mr. Truman set up the three-man emergency panel to hear both sides of the dispute. The long deadlock is over union demands for a 40-hour week in the yards instead of 48, pay increases for all workers, and continuation of present operating rules despite efforts of the carriers to change them.

The hearing scheduled by the three-man board, headed by Carroll R. Daugherty of Northwestern University, opened with a statement by Harold C. Heiss, attorney for the union. Then Heiss suddenly unleashed an attack on Daugherty's colleagues, calling their appointment "unfortunate."

He said the union specifically had asked the national mediation board never to appoint Andrew Jackson, New York attorney, to any job having to do with railroad disputes. Jackson is a member of the board. Just why the union objected to him was not stated.

Allies Set Goal Of 100 Divisions

Rome (AP)—The Atlantic council yesterday set itself a goal of nearly 100 battle-ready divisions in Europe by the end of 1954, officials said.

Qualified informants said the plan is subject to review when the council meets again, probably in January.

State Senate Passes Bill Outlawing Communist Party

Harrisburg, (AP)—A bill outlawing the Communist party in Pennsylvania by name was passed unanimously last night by the Senate.

The measure, submitted under bi-partisan sponsorship, went back to the House for action on Senate amendments. The vote was 46-0.

The anti-Communist bill would impose a maximum jail sentence of 20 years or a maximum fine of $10,000 on anyone "who participates in the revolutionary activities of the Communist party."

The bill would:

One—Make it unlawful for the Communist party to receive any of the privileges of an incorporated body in the State.

Two—Prohibit membership in the party in Pennsylvania.

Three—Prohibit anyone from taking part in the "revolutionary activities" of the Communist party.

Four—Make it illegal to be a member of any organization whose purpose is to overthrow the United States government.

A 1941 act without naming the Communist party prohibits the filing of nomination petitions by any party whose purpose is the violent overthrow of the State or Federal government. A committee of the governor, state attorney general and secretary of the Commonwealth is empowered to decide when a party comes under the act.

Another bill, also aimed at cracking down on Communists, is also before the Legislature. It would require loyalty oaths by all public employees, including school teachers and elected officials.

$12,000 Found On 'Poor' Woman

Marion, Ill., (AP)—An 85-year-old woman who had long put on an elaborate show of poverty turned out to be carrying a tidy fortune when she was disrobed for hospital treatment of a hip injury.

Doctors at Herrin hospital said yesterday Mrs. Mary King, a 39-year-old old age pensioner, had $11,800 in a carpenter's apron worn under her old black dress. She had $175 more in a purse.

Nonetheless, they quoted her as protesting she did not know who would pay for treatment of her hip, broken in a fall Saturday. They told her she had more than enough and not to worry. They quoted her as replying:

"Yes, but I intended that money for a rainy day."

Czech Reds Imprison Vice Premier

Vienna, Austria (AP) — Rudolf Slansky, Czechoslovakia's Moscow-taught purger, himself has been purged, the Prague radio announced yesterday.

The broadcast said the ruddy-faced Slansky had been removed from his job as vice-premier and his seat in Parliament and jailed on charges of anti-state activities—a charge that could mean sabotage, plotting to overthrow the government or spying.

Slansky's peculiar background left observers outside the iron curtain puzzled as to whether his downfall was due to a tighter hitch by Moscow on Czechoslovak affairs, a more independent trend by President Clement Gottwald or a personal rivalry with the president.

The first hint of the decline of the 49-year-old Slansky came last Sept. 7 when it was announced he had been removed from his powerful post as secretary general of the Czech Communist party.

Rearmament Progresses

Washington (AP) — Defense Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson said yesterday rearmament is clicking along at World War Two pace, but a series of strikes in the last four months retarded production. The husky defense boss also complained about a national psychology that "we're not at war."

"General Eisenhower," Begon said, "has indicated to intimate military associates that he will leave his command no later than next February to seek and accept the Republican nomination for president."

The same speculation has come from a number of sources, including close friends of the general. However, Eisenhower repeatedly has refused to say how long he expects to remain in Europe or whether he would accept nomination if it was offered to him.

Stepinac May Be Released

Belgrade Yugoslavia, (AP) Premier Marshall Tito indicated last night that Archbishop Aloysius Stepinac might be released from prison within a month.

He did not specifically refer to "release" but said the "question" of the imprisoned spiritual leader of Yugoslavia's 7,000,000 Roman Catholics would be "solved within one month."

Tito did not say whether the Catholic prelate would be given a pardon or a parole.

He said bluntly, however: "I am going to tell you we will solve the question of Stepinac, even without the consent of the Vatican within one month."

Reds Request Time To Study U. N. Proposals

Munsan, Korea, Wednesday (AP) — Allied and Communist negotiators were divided today on two major issues in their attempt to work out a plan for supervising a Korean armistice.

At stake were United Nations proposals for (1) joint truce inspection teams free to roam Korea from the Manchurian border to the southern tip of the peninsula and (2) a ban against military buildups.

The Communists did not immediately reject the seven-point U.N. plan which included these provisions. But their chief delegate, Maj. Gen. Nam Il, said his side thought they were matters that should be settled by a high level conference after an armistice is arranged.

Each side presented plans for supervising an armistice yesterday immediately after negotiators ratified formally an agreement on where the cease-fire line will run if a full armistice is signed within 30 days—by Dec. 27.

The U. N. called the Reds' five-point plan inadequate. The Communists asked time yesterday to study the U. N. plan.

The Reds' reaction was expected at today's meeting of the negotiators at snow-covered Panmunjon.

The Allied plan was presented by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. negotiator. It provides:

One—A cease-fire effective within 24 hours after an armistice is signed applying to all forces under either command.

Two—A supervisory organization with an equal number of Allied and Red personnel to carry out armistice terms.

Three—No increase in military forces, equipment, supplies or facilities.

Four—The armistice commission and its joint observation teams "shall have free access to all parts of Korea."

Five—Air, naval and ground forces, including irregulars, to withdraw from enemy territory.

Six—Armed forces will stay out of the buffer zone.

Seven—The military commander of each side shall administer his half of the 2½ mile wide buffer zone.

Remaining items on the conference agenda concern an exchange of prisoners and the "recommendations to governments."

Ike Reportedly To Leave Post Early In Year

New York (AP) — NBC Correspondent Jack Begon said last night Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has indicated he plans to leave his European command early next year to seek the Republican nomination for president.

"General Eisenhower," Begon said, "has indicated to intimate military associates that he will leave his command no later than next February to seek and accept the Republican nomination for president."

The same speculation has come from a number of sources, including close friends of the general. However, Eisenhower repeatedly has refused to say how long he expects to remain in Europe or whether he would accept nomination if it was offered to him.

Presbytery Names Local Minister

Rev. Frank W. Wingerter of East Stroudsburg's Presbyterian church has been elected commissioner to serve as a delegate to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in New York City next May.

Mr. Wingerter was one of four named commissioners to the General Assembly during a meeting of the Presbytery of Lehigh which met at First Church of Easton yesterday.

Five Monroe county Presbyterian churches were represented at the conference which attracted representation from a total of 45 churches.

The meeting started at 10 a. m. yesterday with Rev. Dr. Robert Williamson, guest pastor, welcoming delegates. Rev. Harry Maue moderated the sessions.

The delegates received favorably a report of Eugene C. Blake, stated clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the U. S. A. which was read by Rev. Gorman Roof, of Catawba, stated clerk of the Presbytery.

The report concerned the Vatican appointment by the President of the United States, The General council requested the Presbytery to wait upon senator and representatives of Pennsylvania personally, by letter and telegram opposing diplomatic recognition of the Vatican, to express opposition with the President and finally, to report attitudes of those contacted.

Rev. Feizallah Larudy, pulpit supply of South church, Easton was received and enrolled as a member of the Presbytery from the Evangelical church of Iran. Rev. Larudy will be installed as pastor of the South church December 6.

Rev. Frederick Crane reported Lehigh Presbytery has contributed over $13,000,000 to the Presbyterian Homes for the Aged in Central Pennsylvania. This Presbytery leads six other Presbyteries in contribution to this cause.

Mr. Crane announced that ten of the 13 churches vacant in the Presbytery last year have been manned with pastors.

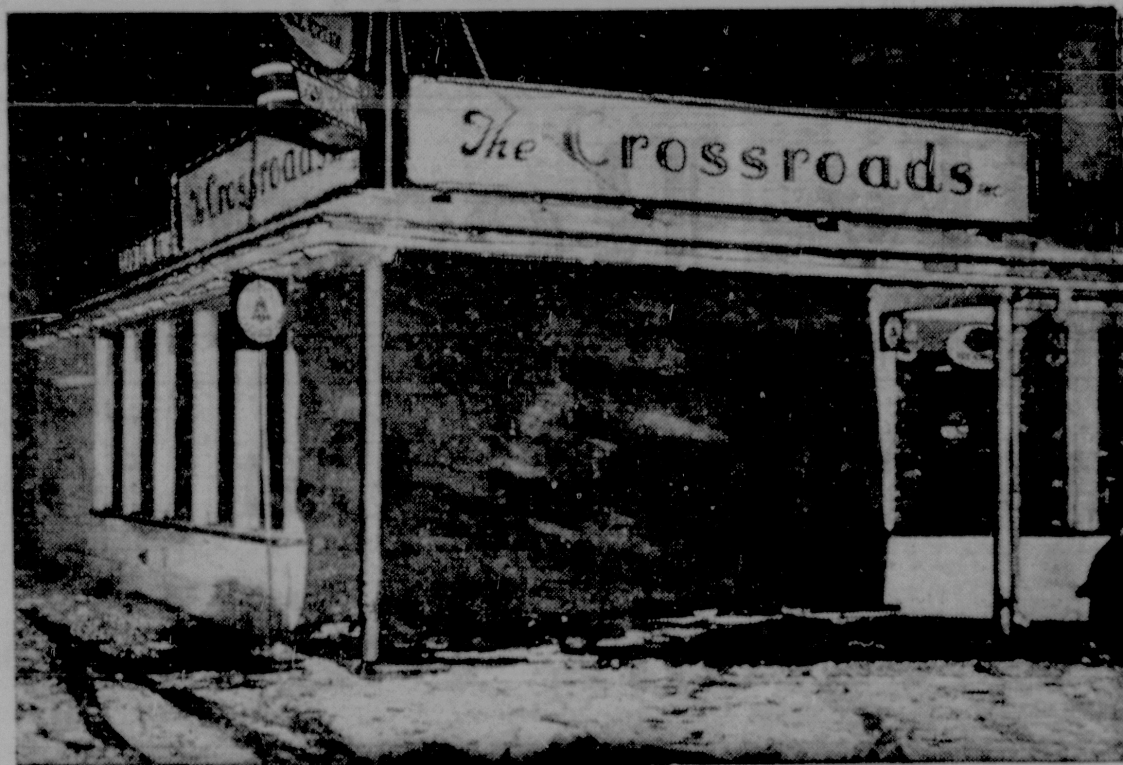

Others elected as commissioner delegates to General Assembly are Rev. Mark R. Thompson, Easton, Henry Seip and Harold E. Lundy. Delegates to the synod meeting next June elected yesterday include Rev. Paul Jamieson, Rev. Kirk Davis, Rev. Dr. Raymond Wallace, C. R. Randolph, Clarence Graver and Goodman Walters. Presbyterian churches of Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Middle Smithfield, Delaware Water Gap and Shawnee were represented.

Pending legislation affecting education was discussed at the meeting.

The car took with it a section of wall eight or nine feet high and about 15 feet wide. When this photo was taken by Les Carlson, the car still was inside. The canvas was put up to help keep out the biting cold. Damages to the interior and wall may reach $6000.

Driver Of 'Car That Came To Dinner' Arrested; Restaurant Owner Estimates Damage At $5,000

Canadensis—A reckless driving charge was filed yesterday against the driver of the "car that came to dinner" here Monday night.

The vehicle crashed through the front door of "The Crossroads" and wound up in the restaurant's dining room.

No meals were being served at the time. The restaurant section had closed at 7 p. m. but patrons were in the beer garden extension behind the restaurant.

Mount Pocono State police said the driver was Franklin F. Pierce, 59, a pantryman at Sky-top lodge.

Pierce told police he was driving his sedan down the hill toward the restaurant when a passenger, John Schultz, "fell asleep and fell over on me."

Pierce said that while trying to push Schultz erect again he lost control and the car left the highway and went through the restaurant wall.

The vehicle scattered boxes of candy, sheered off stools in front of the soda fountain, knocked counters aside, buckled the fountain, tore up the flooring, destroyed a scale, and tore out a 15-foot long section of the wall where the front door had been.

Some $350 damages were done to the car. For the restaurant it was a more expensive story.

Owner Adolph Locher said estimates on repairing the damage were received yesterday. They were between five and six thousand dollars.

The car was left sitting where it had come to a stop until insurance representatives had a chance to see the damages. It was towed out again about 5 p. m. yesterday.

Said Locher: "It took a lot longer to go out than to come in."

The car had bounced to one side after going through the wall, he said, and it was necessary to winch it over to line it up with the hole it had made when entering. The removal job took an hour.

Locher said repairs will be started immediately, and that he is fully covered by insurance. He will be able to continue serving lunches, and expects to be ready for full operations in time for the heavy part of the hunting season.

Lesson in Socialism

A teacher in Yonkers (N. Y.) High School has found an excellent method of showing his pupils the holes in the Socialist-Communist idea of taking "from each according to his ability" and giving "to each according to his need."

The teacher, Thomas J. Shelly, describes his method in the International Business Machines Corp. magazine, "Think."

"When one of the brighter or harder-working pupils makes a grade of 95 on a test, I suggest that I take away 20 points and give them to a student who has made only 55 on his test," Mr. Shelly says.

"Thus each would contribute according to his ability and—since both would have a passing mark—each would receive according to his need."

"After I have juggled the grades of all the other pupils in this fashion, the result is usually a 'common ownership' grade of between 75 and 80—the minimum needed for passing, or for survival."

"Then I speculate with the pupils as to the probable results if I actually used the socialistic theory for grading class test papers."

"First, the highly productive pupils—and they are always a minority in school as well as in life—would soon lose all incentive for producing. Why strive to make a high grade if part of it is taken from you by 'authority' and given to someone else."

"Second, the less productive students—a majority in school as elsewhere—would, for a time, be relieved of the necessity to study or to produce."

"This Socialist-Communist system would continue until the high producers had sunk—or had been driven down—to the level of the low producers. At that point, in order for anyone to survive, the 'authority' would have no alternative but to begin a system of compulsory labor and punishments against even the low producers."

Mr. Shelly concludes with the statement that most of the pupils get the point—that Socialism, even in a democracy, eventually must result in a living death for all persons except the "authorities" and a few of their favorite lackeys.

Other teachers could well adopt the Yonkers man's explanation.

The flaw in Socialism and other "planned economies" is not hard to detect—the planners ignore human nature. But some persons do not yet see how the theories would, and do, result in misery for all.

The Loyalty Bill

With the State Senate back in Harrisburg to make a final effort to complete its part of the General Assembly program for 1951 so that the legislature can adjourn before Christmas, sine die, the House members who will return on Dec. 10 may expect another all-out effort to pass the disputed loyalty oath bill.

This was pointed out by a statement from Rep. Watkins of Schuylkill, chairman of the House State Government Committee, that he will make every effort to have the controversial measure approved.

It is difficult to understand the opposition to the bill. All that it requires is that public workers in the commonwealth, including school teachers and elected officials, take an oath that they are not Communists.

What is so difficult about that? The raising the right hand and swearing that one has nothing to do with Communism should be an act of pride.

Perhaps this is an effort in over-simplification, but the very fact that a state employee seeks to avoid taking such a loyalty oath presupposes an element of guilt to our way of thinking. It is far from being a "have you stopped beating your wife" sort of question. It is, on the contrary, a question every loyal American should be eager and happy to answer with appropriate gestures.

Try And Stop Me

The village drunk in Herb Shriner's Indiana birthplace explained to all and sundry that he simply took a nip now and then to "quiet his nerves." He finally achieved the ultimate success, recalls Herb: He quieted his nerves so completely that he couldn't move at all.

Herb also remembers this character's watch. For years it lacked an hour hand. "I'm waiting for something else to bust on it," explained the character, "so's I can get the whole thing fixed at once."

The Algonquin's famous boniface, the late Frank Case, loved William Faulkner personally, but was no admirer of his tortuous prose and grim pictures of depravity in the old South. Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—I'll never again worry about movie moppets getting enough schooling between scenes. Gigi Perreau, now a self-assured young lady of 10½, is a straight-A student, her mother assures me. And Gigi's 13-year-old actor brother, who goes by the name of Peter Miles, was 19th among 250 boys taking entrance exams at Loyola High.

Incidentally, Mrs. Eleanor Perreau, who's pretty enough herself to be in pictures, disclosed that Peter no longer cares too much about continuing an acting career. He'd like to be a writer, director, or art director and—on the side—a horse breeder.

But Gigi, now emoting in "Oh! Money, Money," dreams of becoming an adult star. Her sister, Janine Perreau, 9, who also acts in pictures, hasn't decided about a career. To her this professional face-making is still a game.

Glimpses of Glamerville: Marshall Thompson groaning: "I've a toothache — and Dad's out of town!" His pop's a dentist.

Alan Hale's widow took their 19-year-old daughter to see the producer about a part in "This Is Dynamite." The producer had no role for the daughter, but he signed Mrs. Hale to play Edmond O'Brien's mother. She was stage star Gretchen Hartman before her marriage to Hale.

Something I'm tired of is jokes about Jane Russell's bosom. Speaking of curves: If fake ones are produced by falsies, why not call the genuine article "realies"?

Jean Simmons says there's great name-confusion on the "Androcles" set. There's herself and Gene Lockhart, Alan Young and Alan Mowbray, and the crew includes a Lloyd and a Floyd. "Half Breed," supposedly finished last spring, ran only 55 minutes on the screen.

Reginald Gardiner darned near looks like a woman, and a handsome one at that, in his "Androcles" role of Roman courier. Long, richly embroidered robe, laced-on leg and arm covers, single dazzling earring, tightly curled wig.

Tony Curtis chatting in sign language with somebody across the studio lunchroom. He's playing a deaf and dumb prize-fighter. Sage comment by my young son when sexy Mari Blanchard slinks ominously onto the scene in "Ten Tall Men": "Dames always wreck everything."

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Politics And Amusements

When a conservative commentator comes on the radio, he discovers that it is very difficult to get commercial sponsorship. Usually the advertising agencies take the position that such a commentator is "controversial." A liberal or New Deal commentator is not controversial because he is orthodox.

Fulton Lewis, Jr., the most successful of conservative commentators, could write a valuable and learned sociological study of his troubles. Few conservative commentators remain on the air, because they cannot afford to work unsponsored. Even among those who can afford to continue the time allotted to non-commercial broadcasting is such as to keep the audiences comparatively small.

The principle is that there are just as many Democrats as Republicans, that Liberals, fellow-travelers and Communists can make a big noise and that therefore it is wisest to avoid "controversy" for soap, face powder, or breakfast food, which are in themselves non-controversial.

This same principle is now being applied to many who have of their own choice, preferred to be Communists or to join left-wing organizations or to indicate a preference for Soviet Russia. No one questions an American's right to do all these things.

But no one can question my right to refuse to listen to a program on which such a person appears, or to buy some other soap or to eat another breakfast food. That makes it all very controversial and the rule which advertising agencies have applied to conservative commentators is applicable to these actors, singers and directors who have been flying high with Stalinist associations.

The advertising agencies argue that they have to keep their clients out of trouble and that today they encounter trouble-makers on the right as they used to encounter them on the left. For instance, the "American Legion Magazine" for December 1951 publishes an article, "Did The Movies Really Clean House?" by Dr. J. B. Matthews, America's greatest authority on indigenous Communist activity in this country since 1934.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington—C. I. O. union leaders have been promised White House support for a 10 per cent wage increase before the first of the year. Steel workers will make the first bid for the boost in pay. Preliminary sparring between C. I. O. leaders and steel manufacturers is already under way, and union president, Philip Murray is urging even faster action.

The President and the C. I. O. leaders have expressed the hope that wage disputes will be kept from the White House doorstep. But this is merely hot wind, since both Murray and Mr. Truman have already sealed the bargain for the 10 per cent boost.

The government will pick up most of the check for the increase. On the basis of statements by defense production officials, the bulk of the steel produced after January 1, will be used to fill Defense department orders for the military. But higher prices will be paid by civilian consumers as well, since steel producers are sure to ask for higher steel prices.

The deal between the President and the C. I. O. took place on the heels of an announcement by the Federal Reserve board that the cost of living had gone up only 1 and one quarter per cent in the eight months since February. The FRB says this is proof that its voluntary restraints on bank and business credit are successful. But Federal Reserve board governor, Oliver S. Powell, must have known what he was predicting when the next inflationary pressures would hit as consumers. I make the prediction for him: just as soon as Mr. Truman gives the C. I. O. the "go" signal.

Meanwhile Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin is gadding around the country at our expense explaining to labor leaders out of one side of his mouth that wage ceilings are essential, while telling them from the other side that labor is underpaid. Tobin delivered the President's message of the 10 per cent boost in pay to C. I. O. President Murray at the C. I. O. convention in New York recently. He said that "bringing the wages of the workers up to match the rise in the cost of living will not destroy the wage stabilization program."

Taking the Federal Reserve Board figure of a one and one quarter per cent increase in the cost of living, Tobin would seem to be offering organized labor a wage boost of only this amount. But Tobin, naturally, has a set of his own figures concerning the increased cost of living. He says the increase is more than 10 per cent. And in view of Mr. Truman's promise to the C. I. O., Tobin's figure of 10 per cent is more than coincidence.

Steel producers have no choice but to knuckle under the C. I. O. wage boost demands. Just like anyone else, the heads of the steel industry can read between the lines as Tobin speaks them. Just as always, the steel industry is caught in the squeeze. If it balks, and the steel unions strike, industry will be blamed for wrecking defense production. Steel producers know, also, that 1952 is an election year, and Mr. Truman will make organized labor happy, come what may.

Nobody, least of all the White House, is concerned over what higher steel prices and wages will do to the program of the Office of Price Stabilization. This misleading bureaucracy has lost all meaning in the Washington jungle of administration policy. Its chief function now is to provide jobs for deserving Democrats, while authorizing daily price increases to manufacturers who were throttled by higher costs following the Korean war. OPS ought to be abolished. Its functions could be performed by the Department of Labor or Commerce, since most of the decisions are made at the White House

Man Playing The Typewriter

Before Eisenhower visited the President recently, a columnist warned readers to beware of "inside" stories about Ike's political plans.

Arthur Krock! Now in the White House doghouse for doing just that. The day before the front pages broke the Franchot Tume-Barbara Payton spatrimony blast, Mr. Tume blasted newsmen for predicting their merger would soon end. Not all the London critics named "South Pacific." The Daily Herald oracle blessed it. John Gunther's engrossing essay on Eisenhower (in Look) is a cinch for digest reprints. Audrey Hepburn jumped from Oblivion to Stardom. She has a one-minute bit in the cinema, "The Lavender Hill Mob," and stars in "Gigi," which opened Saturday night. The charmer you may have seen along 5th Avenue wearing gold-monogrammed hosiery was Lily Pons. Life's extensive layout on 200 years of the U. S. Theatre omits one of the greatest showmen — Flo Ziegfeld.

The new film, "Fixed Bayonets," has a form of criticism for Washington execs. A GI in Korea says: "If this is a police action, why don't they send the cops?" Tetch: Variety reviews "Lauritz Melchior under his 'New Acts' section." Add favorite songs: "The Paint Your Wagon" number called: "I Talk to the Trees," beautiful wordage and a delightful rhythm. Holiday mag has a graphic sketch of Fifth Avenue. The top line: "Its heartbeat is the rustle of folding money." Another new gimmick: Canned snow for Christmas trees. Press a button — snow! The latest fashion for males (?) are mink berets with earflaps. Only $175. The cast of the famed "To Dorothy, a Son" still suffers from the shock. It had a 53-week run in London. Producer Leland Hayward's bingos: He has 3 hits on Broadway and 2 clicks on the road. Happy Taxes!

"The Payoff," a new book, reveals that a chance remark overheard by a Brooklyn reporter at a bar—started the bookie Harry Gross-Police scandals. Ed Murrow's new CBS teevy news of the week show rated the raves it got. The only newscaster who uses the medium in a dramatic, imaginative way. NBC's key TV station (New York) has a single newscast on its weekday schedule and none in prospect, either. Fred Waring's once all-male Glee Club is now populated by (more than half) cuties. Backstage at the Martin Beck Theatre where Maxwell Anderson's "Barefoot in Athens" was a casualty (despite a majority of good reviews), the producer posted a memo on the bulletin board blaming the funeral on critic J. Brooks Atkinson. One line said in effect: "It's a pity that the critics can only blow death into a play, not life."

"Detective Story," a really great film, is suffering from the cheapest ad campaign. They try

The motion picture industry tried to keep this article from being published. Radio and television are embarrassed because the names mentioned as Hollywood stars are also radio and television stars. To the advertising agencies, this article will be a headache for a long time. Nobody can gainsay its accuracy.

Elmer Rice, the playwright, has entered this controversy, stating: "I don't care what the actor's political beliefs are, as long as he fits the part for which he is cast. Why, I'd even be willing to use Paul Robeson if there was a place for him on the show."

That is Mr. Rice's point of view, and he has many followers. But my point of view is that Communism is not politics but a vast international conspiracy designed to ruin and conquer my country and I want to fight it not only where I know it exists but where I suspect it exists.

Rice has his choice and I have my choice. I buy tickets for the theater and the movies, I listen to the radio and television; and in this country, I have freedom of choice. Simply stated, I do not choose to participate, by listening, looking, or paying my money, in the popularity and profit of those whom I know or suspect of preferring Soviet Russia to the United States, of preferring Marxism in any form to the United States and its traditions.

As there are millions of Americans who hold the same views as I do on this subject, it has become for motion pictures, radio, television and advertising an extremely serious problem. They could kill off a few conservative commentators and nobody would know the difference, but the rest of us can destroy the commercial value of an actor, singer, writer by passive resistance, by a refusal to have anything to do with him.

I enjoy Paul Robeson's singing but I despise his attitude toward my country. Therefore, I refuse to listen to him sing. No one can force me to listen to him sing. No one can force me to buy a product which sponsors his singing. I am free to resist both the song and the advertising because I object to his political associations. He was free to make his choice and did, I am free to make my choice and do. You are equally free to decide for yourself. That is the issue which these people have to face and curiously enough, the more they try to cry that they are artists, not political philosophers, the more ridiculous they appear.

The few disc-jockeys to originate from a radio studio, has a listening audience greater than all his colleagues lumped together. Source: Pulse, Inc., one of the reliable surveyors. The same firm reports that "radio listening in general" has remained relatively stable in the past 3 years. And that "average quarter-hour per cent homes (studied in Oct. 1951) are within two-tenths of one per cent of the level of both Sept. '51 and October '50 — and within 2 points of Oct. '49."

Looking at Life

By Erich Brandeis

Brandeis

"A good many people have argued, that a man is no better than the woman he lives with. The published biographies of so-called great men have taken all the argument out of the assertion. It is true."

So says Dr. John R. Everett, president of Hollins College, a school for girls, and he ought to know.

Or should he? Does anyone ever know women?

A buyer for a New York department store told me the other day that, although she has been in the business for more than twenty years, she'll be darned if she knows what women really want.

It's just like playing a lottery, she says. Sometimes you win and sometimes you are left with a whole stock of merchandise on your hands.

Dr. Everett makes another assertion which rather makes me think that he does NOT know nature.

"From time to time someone has declared that we have no right to allow romantic love to select the next generation," she writes. "And, further, that a sweet young thing of twenty may bear little resemblance to the millstone of forty."

That may be true, but I still have to find the first "sweet young thing of twenty," either male or female, who gives a single thought to what its mate is going to look like or whether she is going to be a "millstone" in twenty years from now.

And furthermore, there is one other thing we men always overlook.

I noticed it on our recent trip.

We'd be sitting in some restaurant. I'd say to my wife: "Isn't it awful how many homely women you see in this town?"

To which my wife remarks: "Yes, and isn't it awful how many homely men you see in this town."

Then I looked around me, and, by golly, she was right!

I agree with Dr. Everett that no man is any better than the woman he lives with.

But he should have added: And no woman is any better than the man she lives with. Marriage is a mutual thing. A good woman can help a man a whole lot.

A bad woman can hurt him and hold him back.

But so can a good man help his wife to be a good wife to him. And a bad man—a drunkard, a cheat, a loafer—can well ruin a woman.

"Women can make home unbearable, they can injure husbands with unrealistic and corrosive ambition, they can remain socially static while their husbands advance, they can lack understanding, and they can be small and constricted in their views of the world."

In that respect I agree with Dr. Everett.

But whose fault is it if women "remain static"?

If men made women their business and social partners, if they treated them more like homemakers than housekeepers, I am sure they would soon advance with them.

As a matter of fact I think they would soon be ahead of them.

In my own case, it is usually my wife who tells me which fork to use.

I am afraid I shall ever remain "socially static."

Why Video Fans Go Mad

The National Federation of Exasperated Football Video Fans, sponsored by this department, announces through Elmer Twitchell recording secretary, three cheers for the University of Pennsylvania, Harold Stassen, its president, F. T. Murray, its athletic director, and anybody else joining in their demand that the Two-To-A-Customer, Pre-sliced, Short-Order football telecasting program of 1951 be scrapped and a return made to the days when a video owner didn't have to take a packaged telecast or else. All through the football season the television fan has been driven quite mad as he strove to get a big game within two or three hundred miles of his own home and had to settle for one that might as well have been in Lhasa or New Delhi.

The New England fan, raised to think of Yale, Harvard and Princeton as important in football history and tradition, tuned in on almost all of their contests to discover the pre-packaged video program would let him see only some game between Whistletop University and Kalamazoo. The Whistletop and Kalamazoo football fans got a Harvard-Princeton game. Probably South Bend had to settle for a Columbia football battle, while Columbia addicts were restricted to video flashes of a game in San Francisco.

It was all done by mirrors and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which, anxious to guard the gate receipts, took over video, carved the country into zones and limited the nation to football programs "so round, so firm, so fully packed" that millions of fans, accustomed to fireside Saturday afternoon football, settled for "How To Cook a Goose" or a video Western. (Mr. Twitchell insists that he tried for a Western but got an Eastern. He is afraid that if this zonal idea isn't checked he may tune in for a Miami Bathing Beauty parade this winter and be obliged to take a Canadian bobbed event.)

Our fears are even greater. We have a horror of a 1951 television control under which a Republican anxious to follow Taft or Eisenhower in an Indiana campaign will have to accept Truman or Vinson in Massachusetts.

The idea might even spread to baseball. Who will take it peacefully when he tries for a Dodger-Giant game and is told "Wrong zone. You'll take Bridgeport versus Chillicothe"?

Scranton Man Pleads Guilty To Taking Furs From Train

Case Found: Mink Cape Is Missing

A Scranton man pleaded guilty to the theft of a suitcase of furs valued at over $3,000 from a Lackawanna passenger train when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser yesterday afternoon.

The man—Morgan John Williams, who gave his address as 1240 Watson Ave., Scranton—said, in a signed statement, that he took the suitcase, belonging to Harry Left, proprietor of the Vogue Fur shop, 400 Spruce St., Scranton, "somewhere in the mountains" between Scranton and Cresco, in Barrett township.

According to the statement, Williams boarded the first section of No. 6, the "Phoebe Snow," in Scranton Sunday afternoon. Williams, a retired employee of the D. L. and W. railroad, did not know where he was going at the time. He took a seat in one of the smoking rooms in a deluxe coach.

Williams had apparently been drinking heavily. In the statement he said he had consumed "a half-gallon of wine" before boarding the train.

He had been there only a short time when another man came in, carrying a suitcase. The man (Left) sat down in the smoking car and a short time later, fell asleep. While the man was asleep, Williams took the suitcase. He left the train at Cresco.

The defendant then stopped the driver of a Skytop bus and asked the "way to Scranton." The driver pointed out the proper direction. Williams crossed the highway and began thumbing "rides" with passing motorists. A short time later a man, his wife and children picked Williams up and took him into Scranton.

In Scranton Sunday night, Williams said he went to a place called the "Smoke shop." There, according to his statement, he showed the furs in the suitcase to a group of men in the room. The suitcase, according to Williams, was not locked.

One of the men in the room took out a mink cape, valued at $1,500, and draped it over his arm. Others in the room inspected the contents of the suitcase. Some time later, Williams said, one of the men told him "There's your suitcase—under the table." Williams picked up the suitcase, without reexamining its contents and left the shop.

Sunday night, according to his statement, Williams stayed at the home of a friend. Several toilet articles found in the suitcase were taken out and left at the home.

The next morning, Williams took the suitcase with him to an appliance store in Scranton. He left the suitcase there, saying he would pick it up later.

Monday night he returned to the home of his mother at 1240 Watson Avenue, where he was picked up yesterday morning by Lackawanna Officers William Hape and John Asfalk.

Williams, accompanied by officers, picked up the suitcase. An examination of the contents revealed the mink cape had disappeared. The remainder of the articles were apparently still intact. (Listed as recovered was an unlined beaver coat with an estimated wholesale value of $1,500; total value of fur pieces in the suitcase was placed at $3,085, wholesale).

The suitcase was reported "missing" after Left woke up east of East Stroudsburg Sunday afternoon to find it gone. According to Sergeant Harold D. Larison, Lackawanna railroad detective here, William Lantz, trainman on the Phoebe Snow, filed the report. An immediate check of both sections of the Number 6 failed to produce any evidence.

Justice of the Peace Bonser set bail at $6,000, nearly double the amount of the stolen articles. Williams was quoted by one of the arresting officers as having said he "wanted to get this thing over with as soon as possible—he wants to throw himself on the mercy of the court."

The defendant was committed to Monroe county jail, unable to post bail, where he will be held for the December court session.

Court Hears Race Track Case

He continued with other testimony to the effect that on a series of occasions the racing had caused noise and dust which interfered with or caused cancellation of church functions.

Some of the troubles cited by the pastor: Dust twice had played havoc with food served at church suppers; caused his eyes and throat to smart; covered the tombstones and grass in the cemetery; forced closing of the chapel, parsonage or guild hall windows during activities on hot summer days; coated altar and furnishings in the chapel.

In addition, he testified, women members of the congregation had been frightened by the speeding cars and refused to sit near the front of the chapel (closest to the edge of the track).

The hearing continues today at 10 a. m.

No Settlement In Sight At Depot Project

Tobyhanna — No end to the shutdown of the multi-million dollar Signal Corps construction project here was in sight last night.

The work stoppage is a result of the jurisdictional dispute between the A.F. of L's Teamsters union and Operating Engineers union. It began at noon last Friday when Teamsters failed to report back to work.

Workers affected are those employed by Rochez Brothers, the contracting firm in charge. Rochez is handling grading work on the project.

Not involved is the Globe Contracting firm, in charge of drainage work. Globe, a subcontractor, had 46 employees on the job yesterday.

Of Rochez Brothers' 235 employees, 211 have not worked since noon Friday. The balance, still reporting for duty, are office help and maintenance men.

Capt. John Meyers, the Army's resident engineer, said that contrary to expectations, no meeting took place yesterday between him and the business agents of the disputing unions.

No union officials showed up at the project, he said. At best, work probably will not be resumed before next Monday.

Rochez paid off its men for work up to and including Friday, told them there would be no work for another seven days.

Likely reason: If the workers reported during the week Rochez Brothers, under their guaranteed wage contract with the union, would have to pay employees for idle days too.

Since Saturday work is at time-and-a-half rates, Monday seems the likely beginning day—in the event that union differences have been settled by then.

The dispute apparently involved a number of earth-moving motor scrapers ordinarily operated by the Engineers' men.

The motor scrapers recently were put into service as earth-hauling equipment. The drivers of the Teamsters union then claimed jurisdiction.

Col. James Vivian, executive assistant to Col. Ralph E. Cruse, district engineer and Army boss of the project, appeared at the Philadelphia office late yesterday afternoon.

Purpose of his visit was described as "in connection with the work stoppage and other matters."

Pole Falls Across Highway When Struck By Automobile; Driver Escapes Uninjured

Saylorsburg—Route 12 was blocked yesterday when a car hit a telephone pole and caused it to fall across the highway between Sciota and Saylorsburg.

Brodheadsville State police said the driver was Harry W. Bartholomew, 65, Saylorsburg RD 1, whose car went out of control and left the highway about 3 p. m. while moving toward Sciota.

It struck the telephone pole and snapped it off. The pole was at a point where the telephone lines cross the highway. In falling, it carried the wires down with it, blocking the highway.

Bartholomew was uninjured, but some $300 damage was done to the car.

Called to the scene, police held up the wires by hand to allow one-way traffic to pass.

Police called for an extension ladder. One was brought from the George Metzgar farm, Saylorsburg RD 1. Separated into two sections, it was used to prop up the telephone wires. Police said the weight of the cables held the ladder sections erect.

An estimated $200 damage was done to the pole and hardware, owned by the Blue Mountain Telephone Co., Bangor. Workmen had a new pole in service by about 9 p. m., after which normal two-lane traffic proceeded.

There were no arrests.

Christmas Seal Sales Total In Excess Of $2,540 To Date

Sales of 1951 Christmas Seals distributed to 9,000 persons by Monroe County Tuberculosis society to finance another big chest X-ray and general anti-tuberculosis campaign during 1952 rose to $2,540.99 yesterday.

Budgeted down to $8,000 for next year's chest X-ray campaign, follow up work on active cases of TB, administration, travel and incidental office operating expenses, the Society needs prompt response from everyone who received seals to meet the budget.

Compared with 1950 returns for the same period, the cash received from seal sales and sale of Christmas Seal bonds this year runs ahead by $282.22.

Officials of 1 1/2 Tuberculosis society found considerable encouragement in this trend, although returns on some 1,868 letters are involved this year compared with 1,580 letters for the same period of 1950.

"It is most important during the next three weeks for every person who received seals or bonds to be sure and complete their purchase and use the enclosed return envelope to make returns to the TB Society's headquarters at 621 Sarah St., Stroudsburg," Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive secretary said yesterday.

Already set up under the 1952 budget, is a program to give free chest x-rays to students of county highway schools and their athletes, food handlers and teachers. Expense of all follow-up work on active cases will also be paid out of budget monies. The society will also provide free chest x-rays for patients admitted to General Hospital for a six month period.

Pick Doorway That Agrees With Plans

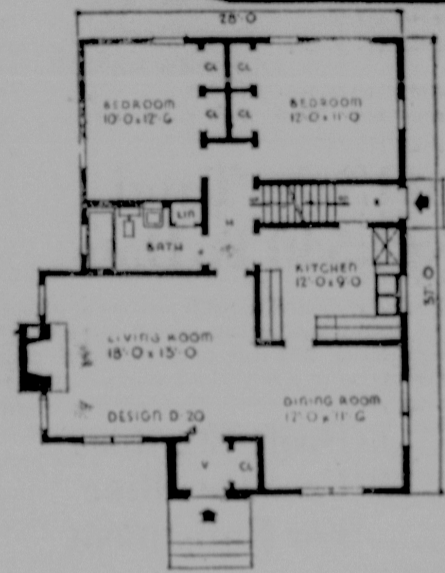

There are many types of doorways, porches, and entries, but just any one will not fit the individual house. The fidelity of the architectural design is dependent upon the selection of the correct doorway just as much as it is on the correct type of roof.

In modernizing the exterior of a dwelling care should be exercised to see that if the remodeling changes the designs that the doorway or porch is changed to blend harmoniously with the new scheme.

Prevailing American home architecture is either an adaptation of Colonial or some one of the leading types of Colonial architecture.

If the home is New England Colonial, Dutch Colonial, or Southern Colonial, there is a doorway that fits perfectly with the design, and any other employed will detract from the appearance of the house.

In the case of an extensive remodeling project that will alter the design of the exterior radically it is best that the homeowner consult an architect in order that the result is not a hodge-podge of old and new but an architecturally correct new exterior.

THE DONALD has exterior lines broken by a projecting living room and dining room. The entrance vestibule is faced with brick. The balance of the exterior is finished with wide siding and the front gable with vertical siding.

The Donald's dining and living rooms are connected by a large opening which provides both rooms with a pleasant feeling of spaciousness as well as cross light and ventilation.

All of the Donald's rooms lead into the hall from which the stairs leading to the attic also open. This makes possible the two future second floor rooms. Closet space in the house includes a large wardrobe closet with overhead storage space in each of the bedrooms, a coat closet in the front vestibule and a linen closet in the bathroom.

Plans call for frame construction, insulated walls and ceilings and a full basement. Overall dimensions of The Donald are 31 feet by 32 feet. The main body of the house is 28 feet by 32 feet. Ground area of The Donald is 1042 square feet with a volume of 23,347 cubic feet.

For further information about THE DONALD, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

New Pots And Pans

The stepped-up efficiency for kitchens includes new pots and pans to make cooking easier and simpler. "What you need, where you need it, when you need it" is the principle on which new kitchens are designed. The new pressure cookers provide a satisfactory way of cooking meat and vegetables. Easy to use, they save the valuable juices that are often boiled away and give flavor to foods cooked in them.

Stainless steel cooking pans—made with chrome over copper bottoms that are easy to keep clean—are another of the new corners that stay bright and shining on your kitchen shelves. Heat spreads quickly over this kind of surface; therefore vegetables cook quickly in very little water. This means vegetables retain more vitamins than when cooked slowly in a quantity of water.

Glass is coming forward as an important member of the cooking fraternity. There are glass bowls in which one may bake and also glass frying pans. The bowls do a triple efficiency job, for they may be brought to the table for serving, or used to store food in the refrigerator.

Housewife Does Something About Improper Lighting

A desire to "do something" about the harsh, uncomfortable lighting in her apartment recently led one working mother into transforming a drab, uninspiring living room into a cheerful, inviting one.

Because lighting and interior walls and furnishings are so closely related, the first step in the apartment's "face lifting" was a fresh coat of yellow paint on the walls in this windowless room.

New slip covers in gray, yellow, wine and forest green gave the old sofa and chair a fresh new look.

To conceal the opening into an adjoining bedroom yellow twill draperies were selected to match the wall and to give an illusion of space in the room.

Because space was an acute problem, a small adjoining entrance hall was made into a music study room for two teen-age daughters.

Creating softer, more comfortable lighting in the room did not necessitate buying all new lamps and fixtures. Here are the ways old equipment was improved to give better lighting.

The bare bulb ceiling fixture with its uncomfortable glare was "softened" by the addition of inexpensive clip-on plastic shields. All that was needed to improve the lighting of the bridge lamp was a new white, easy-to-wash plastic shade and a 100-watt white bulb with a special finish that gives softer light.

An excellent certified table lamp, formerly used on the desk was moved to an end table beside the sofa.

At the other end of the sofa, a new moderately-priced small floor lamp was added. A new space-saving pin-to-wall lamp on the opposite side of the room supplied another comfortable reading spot. Both lamps have the 150-watt three-lit white indirect bulb which gives generous and soft lighting at low cost.

New lighting was required for the youngsters' study desk in the small hallway. Inexpensive pin-to-wall lamps with 100-watt bulbs were used again to save space. When placed as you can see in the picture at the right, above, 30 inches apart and 15 inches to the lower edge of the shades, as recommended in the new light conditioning recipe for study. They provide recommended amounts of light for study.

Prof. John Hayes, of Allentown, spent the Thanksgiving vacation with his family here.

How To Use Plastic Paint

In using plastic paint, unpainted plaster is usually given a coat of size if it is new and absorptive. Otherwise the plastic paint may be applied direct. Cracks and holes should be filled with plaster of Paris or crack filler before the size is applied.

Painted walls require no surface preparation for plastic paint unless the finish is glossy, in which case the gloss should be toned down by washing the surface with a weak solution of warm water and salt soda. Calcimine or wall paper should be removed. Wall board requires sizing.

Services Of Expert Urged In Altering

When an old house is bought with the intention of modernizing it the services of an expert are generally required to determine to what extent modernization is necessary for modern living.

There is a certain amount of interior inspection, however which may be made by the layman.

Some of the things to check in examining a house include leaky faucets, clogged drains, sticking doors and windows, broken sash cords and weather stripping. The prospective purchaser should see if the baseboards have shrunk or if they fit snugly to the floor. Creaking floors should be checked. The plaster, especially at the top of door frames, should be checked for cracks and all exposed wires should be examined to determine whether or not they are properly insulated.

If eye-level were 10 feet high, the ocean's horizon would be more than 4 miles distant.

Clean Furnace Once A Year

A furnace and the pipes that lead from it should be cleaned every year. Off-times dirt and soot will rise through these pipes and cause the walls and ceilings in the rooms to be soiled. One of the causes of this condition is that the cement in the joints between the sections of the cast iron furnace have become broken. This makes an opening in the fire box by which the smoke and soot may escape into the ducts that serve the registers. The cement in the furnace fire pot joints is not permanent. It may last five years.

Potted Bulbs May Be Forced

The forcing of potted bulbs may be started whenever they are well rooted. Bring them into a cool room and water as needed. Ample moisture is needed for good growth. As soon as the leaves appear move the pots into sunlight. If the flower stems are short a paper collar may be used to force them into taller growth. Keep them as cool as possible.

Burner Adjustment

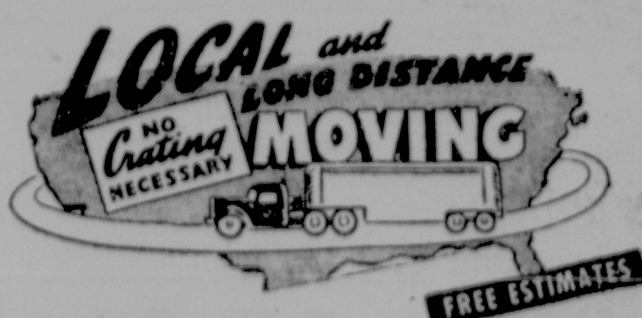

Fuel is wasted if gas or oil feeding to the furnace is not properly mixed with air. A heating contractor should be called several times during the winter to make sure the mixture is correct.

Sheet Metal Often Needs Attention

Serious thought and careful attention to the sheet-metal work on houses should be given by home owners.

Gutters and leaders, or downspouts, flashing around the chimneys, windows and doors, and in valleys and on ridges, and the ducts for heating and ventilating come under the heading of sheet-metal work.

Considered most important are the flashings, they say. As they are built into the structure, they should be made of metal which resists corrosion.

Get Roughest Usage

Gutters and downspouts are subjected to the roughest usage and will usually wear out more quickly than the flashings, but, unless they are built-in gutters and interior leaders, they both can be replaced without much difficulty and at comparatively little cost.

Because of their extreme exposure, gutters and leaders should be made of a metal which is highly resistant to corrosion. The material for interior ducts is not so important unless the ducts are to carry air with a high degree of moisture.

Flashing for the chimney should go through the chimney and turn down inside the flue lining. Flashing over doors and windows should carry up well behind the siding or shingles above the opening.

'Cheap' Heating Often Expensive

A heating system should be regarded as an investment, the same as a home or an automobile, declare specialists at the University of Illinois' Small Homes Council. The real cost of a heating system is not just the cost of the original equipment, they say, but is equal to the initial cost, plus the maintenance and fuel costs. A "cheap" heating system will surely cost more in the end than one properly designed and installed.

Check Plumbing Equipment Before Purchasing House

Before buying a house, it is well to check on the condition of the plumbing and heating equipment, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau advises.

Because the average homeowner does not have the expert knowledge necessary to determine the condition of the plumbing and heating, it is advisable to engage the services of a plumbing and heating contractor to make an inspection. Among the points with reference to the plumbing that should be checked are these: Is the hot water supply adequate; what is the condition of the piping; is the piping clogged with scale so that the water does not flow freely; does the piping show evidence of corrosion so that it may have to be replaced soon; is the plumbing noisy; is there evidence of serious stoppage of the waste lines and drains; what about the condition of the fixtures and fittings?

Remodel Interior In Winter

Winter months are an excellent time of the year to do, or have done, the interior painting and remodeling which is necessary or desirable. Walls and woodwork are dry, and in condition to receive paint or varnish, providing that the surfaces have been properly prepared. The dry warmed house atmosphere is free from humidity and freshly painted surfaces will dry well.

The painters and carpenters, at this season, have more time than during the "Spring rush" and can work more comfortably than in hot weather.

Interior decoration during the Fall and Winter may be a new idea to many, but it is thoroughly practical and work done during these seasons is apt to be more satisfying and more economical than the same work done at other times of the year.

Protect Furniture

Dry heat in Summer and damp heat in Winter can loosen joints, detach veneer, and cause wood of furniture to warp or crack. Oil or polish applied occasionally will seal the pores and help to preserve the wood.

$7,000 Loss In Collision Of Trucks

Two trucks were destroyed — one by fire — after colliding on Route 611 shortly before midnight Monday at Wigwam Park.

The truck which caught fire was a 1948 tractor and semi-trailer worth $4,500, according to Stroudsburg State police.

It was owned by R. Marquard, Taylor, Pa., a coal dealer, and driven by Walter W. Strausser, 22, Gouldsboro.

Pfc. Emil J. Weber and Pfc. Joseph Murphy said Strausser had pulled into the center lane to pass a south-bound car.

His vehicle collided with a north-bound 1948 truck driven by Joseph Bertoth, 35, Robinsville Rd. 1, N. J. The impact caused the Strausser truck to turn over. It caught fire and blazed fiercely.

The other vehicle, worth an estimated $2,500, also was demolished, but did not burn.

The Stroud Township Fire Co. was called, and the blaze extinguished. What was left of the two vehicles was towed to Lesoine's garage in Stroudsburg.

Only one injured was Strausser. He suffered head bruises and leg cuts.

Police reported no arrests.

SHE TEACHES THE SIGHTLESS TO COOK IN THE DARK

LEARNING HOW to broil a steak or turn out a batch of delicious cookies is no problem for an average housewife, but a sightless cook would be handicapped—unless she knew Emily Jesson. In the past 20 years Miss Jesson, as instructor for the New York Association for the Blind, has taught more than 800 students how to cook good meals safely. Totally blind herself, she first instills confidence by going to the house of the blind student, finding her way around the strange kitchen and then pitching in to turn out a tasty meal. She guides pupils until they can cook a dinner confidently. Many of her pupils are doing all their cooking and, like Emily, will tell anyone that it's fun to "cook in the dark."

High School Musical Groups Entertain Stroudsburg Lions

Numa Snyder, head of the department of music of the Stroudsburg High school, had charge of the program of the Lions club last night at the weekly dinner in the Penn-Stroud hotel, and presented juvenile artists of the school student body.

The Lions expressed themselves as delighted with the artistry of the young people as well as the beauty and appeal of the numbers.

In the business session one new member was obligated, Dr. Edmund Megann. Dr. James Gavin conducted the ceremony and the new cub was greeted with applause.

A letter from Al DeLenniz, now in the Army and hospitalized at the Fort Dix hospital, was read. The absent Lion expressed his respect for Lionism and paid tribute for what the club had done for him.

The program chairman announced that a revival of old-fashioned vaudeville would be featured by the club at the December 11 meeting. He advised all members to be present.

The meeting was then turned over to Mr. Snyder, who presented, as his first number, a saxophone sextette including Rod Stanard, Jack Townsend, Joan Laise, Ada Kathryn Zugel, Kay Shook and Ken Lee.

They rendered "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" and "London-derry Air."

Mr. Snyder then introduced a girls ensemble known as the De-cemettes, whose number "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" and "I'm going to wash that man right out of my hair" drew salvos of applause. Recalled, the girls sang English versions of two French Christmas carols.

The singers included Pauline Repsher, Pat Bartholomew, Sandra Bolich, Anne Nitrauer, Marian Williams, Clara Lou Hall, Jackie

the difference; your friends notice it. Back comes your appetite—you should actually feel the urge to eat. Nerves can grow steadier; work easier; you may sleep more soundly. So why delay? Why not decide now to take FERRIZAN for 30 days and see if you don't feel just how wonderful FERRIZAN can make you feel. Costs you only a few cents a day. Money refunded if not completely satisfied, says LeBar's Rexall Drugs, 630 Main St.

When it comes to SERVICE

PLYMOUTH IS THE CAR WITH MORE DEALERS, MORE TRAINED SERVICE-MEN, THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

Professor "Tech," film character familiar to Plymouth servicemen, points out the newest and best service procedure. The latest educational aids, along with manuals, demonstrations, and practical "laboratory work" in the shop, are combined in a continuing "postgraduate" course. This unique, specialized training is one of the big reasons why forward-looking servicemen prefer to work for Plymouth dealers.

To many people, the kind of service that's behind a car is important.

Before buying, they wisely ask: "Where can I get service if I need it?"

Plymouth Dealers Are Everywhere

It makes no difference where you live, there's an expertly trained Plymouth serviceman near you. With over 10,500 Plymouth dealers —far more than for any other make of car—you'll find a Plymouth dealer in or near every community in the nation.

70,000 Master Technicians

Plymouth owners have available not only the most, but the best, service. Nearly 70,000 Plymouth servicemen are members of the Master Technicians Service Conference, the largest program of its kind in the world. In operation for more than 4 years, this is a continuing "postgraduate" course in the most accurate, surest ways of diagnosing mechanical difficulties... the newest, best service methods.

The Right Service at the Right Time

Plymouth Master Technicians are the kind of servicemen who can diagnose the complaint right off—without costly, time-wasting guesswork and experimenting. Then they work to factory-approved standards, with factory-engineered parts. Result: The job is done properly. The Plymouth car is built to last —to give you fine and dependable transportation at low cost. But when your Plymouth does need a checkup, minor adjustment, or repair, it's good to know that this fine service is always near you. It's part of the satisfaction, the sense of extra value, that you get when you buy a Plymouth.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

There's no need to ask where the play school meets, once you step in the doors of the Grace Lutheran parish house — you can just follow your ears.

Something to see that many children so busy, each with his own project and certainly gives you back your sense of proportion, in case you're used to having grown-ups make a fuss over you wherever you go.

To a playschool child, you're about as animate as a tree, or a chair—something to be walked around or crawled under or hidden behind but otherwise ignored, unless you're throwing a tantrum or telling a story.

J. H. Kunkle didn't seem to be lacking for attention, however, and couldn't help thinking that everybody, even grandfathers, get in on this cooperative business.

But speaking about schools and scholars, how about Elwood La-Bar's roster? Elwood knew he was a prize roster, but never thought he was smart enough to go to college—but he sure is, and right away starting in the college play, "The Silver Whistle" which opens tonight, at the college auditorium.

Incidentally see where a couple of old troupers have been dusted off and put to work again—the puppets for "Everyman" appearing down at Newton yes-

SERIOUS BUSINESS, this playschool, at least the trio caught unaware yesterday by the Record photographer at the Pocono Playschool Coop at the Grace Lutheran church, East Stroudsburg, seem to feel. That's Kathy Walz with the telephone, while Michael and Ellen Katz exchange ideas over the tea cup.

Everybody Helps In New Pocono Playschool Coop

The Pocono Playschool Coop requires cooperation from both mothers and children, and the families with children enrolled are discovering. The school was organized by a group of parents interested in giving their children opportunities to play with other children their own age group under competent supervision.

They have hired Miss Diane Brian, formerly associated with the Shawnee Play School, and the Pocono school is now underway at the Grace Lutheran church where parents and merchants have contributed play equipment, where saw horses turn one corner into a play house, where the easel is constantly busy as children splash paint with big brushes on their big pictures, and play tables where the picture books are ever in use.

Mothers take turns helping supervise the children at their work and play.

A typical day's schedule includes arrival at 9 a. m.; followed by free play, milk at 10:50; creative and quiet activities from 11 to 11:30; and music, rhymes and story from 11:30 to 12.

For those who stay through the day there is lunch at 12:30; a rest between 1:15 and 1:45 and free play, and creative activity before milk and a story and dismissal at three.

There are at present about 20 children enrolled in the school, some for the morning sessions, some for two or three days a week. It is a non-profit organization, and the costs are set on a sliding scale.

Among the children present yesterday morning, in addition to the three pictured above were David Ellenberger, Sally Jane and Amy Wunder, David Katz, Bruce Lauer, Russell Josephson, Robert Barrow, Patty McMahon, Bill Kunkle and Phillip Farber.

The parents met last night to discuss further plans for the school. Children may still be enrolled, they announced, and may call Mrs. Harry Wald, 972-R or Mrs. Morton Barrow, 1769-R, for full information about the school.

Band Parents Cake Walk Set For February 22

The Stroudsburg Band Parents met Monday night at the school to discuss plans to enlarge the scope of their organization, and also planned a cake walk and bazaar for February 22.

Jack Mullins, president, named Mrs. Merle E. Stevenson as chairman for the event which will be held at the high school gymnasium with the band to play for the cake walks.

Following the meeting, John Pyle, band director, presented a saxophone sextette from the band, which played several numbers. The sextette included Ada Mae Zugel, Joan Laise, Kay Shook, Rodney Stanard, Jack Townsend, and Kenneth Lee.

Fellowship Aux. Plans Turkey Supper

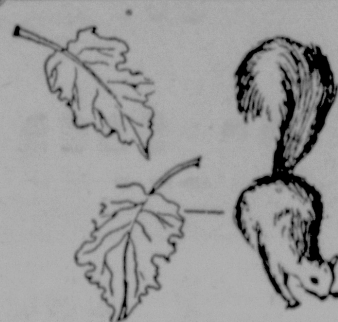

A full course dinner will be served at the Christmas meeting of the Good Fellowship auxiliary and Santa Claus will distribute gifts at the party to be held December 23 at the C.U. club, it was announced at the November meeting held Sunday night.

Mrs. Nellie Rohrbacher was obligated as a new member, and new officers were nominated. They will be elected and installed at the next meeting.

The attendance prize was donated by Myrtle Hamblin and was won by Caroline Altmann.

After the meeting a measuring social was held, with each member paying a penny for each inch measured around her waistline. Refreshments were served by the committee, Cora Berger and Myrtle Saxe.

Thanksgiving Party Held By VFW Aux.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary held its Thanksgiving party on Monday night at the VFW home when the district president, Mrs. Frances Kipple, was among the guests.

The auxiliary voted to contribute $50 to the Christmas Fund at the National home; $10 to the Community Chest; and $5 to the department encampment fund.

With Mrs. Evelyn Tweedie, president, presiding, Mrs. Edith Lax was initiated as a new member. There will be only one meeting in December, it was announced, which will be the annual Christmas party on December 10, when all members will be asked to bring a 50-cent gift for the grab bag, and when special refreshments and entertainment has been planned.

The district meeting will be held at the VFW home in Stroudsburg on Sunday, December 2, at 3 p. m. for both the post and the auxiliary, it was announced. Mrs. Agnes Holtz, Junior state president and national chaplain, will be the guest of the auxiliary.

Following the meeting, an entertainment was presented featuring Shirley Schwartz and members of her dancing school. Miss Schwartz did a tap routine with one of her pupils, Margaret Haney; Dick Van Why sang a solo; and Eddie Weingartner played a cornet solo.

Miss Dorothy Albertson presented a solo twirling number, and Fred Mersch, Bernie Whitman and Mrs. Stella Metzgar served as accompanists.

Pocono Council GOP Women Plan Dec. Luncheon

Mount Pocono — At the November meeting of the Pocono Mt. Council of Republican Women held recently at the home of Miss Eloise Bryan, Swiftwater, plans were formulated for a luncheon to be held at the Skyline Inn, Mt. Pocono, on Tuesday, Dec. 18 at 1 p. m.

A special Christmas menu will be featured. Mrs. Helen McBride is general chairman of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Doris McCoy, Mrs. Mae McGinley, Mrs. Teresa Cruse and Mrs. Ida Warner.

The committee is planning a surprise program appropriate to the occasion. The luncheon is not restricted to local council members only but any interested Republican woman in the area is cordially invited to attend. Reservations must be made, however, by contacting Mrs. Helen McBride or Mrs. Catherine Humphrey who have available tickets.

During the business meeting which was in charge of Mrs. Catharine Humphrey, president; Mrs. Helen McBride and Mrs. Mae McGinley were appointed to assist in their revision since the termination of the council's year has been changed from Feb. to Oct.

Two new members, Mrs. William Vance and Mrs. William McCoy were welcomed.

Car Owners Warned Of Solicitation

A warning was received here yesterday from Deputy Insurance Commissioner Ralph H. Alexander advising motorists against buying automobile accident insurance by mail.

His warning came while regional motorists were being flooded with mail solicitations to purchase automobile insurance. During the past few weeks, a survey revealed, hundreds of motorists here have received mail solicitation.

The invitation received through the mails comes from the "American Automobile Owner's Safety Assn., Inc." of Kansas City. The invitation to join indicates the joiner will thus qualify to buy inexpensive accident coverage.

The association doesn't sell insurance; that is written by the "Safety Drivers' Insurance Corp." which is registered in Arizona.

Alexander said the corporation was not authorized to do business in Pennsylvania.

"We urge Pennsylvanians to buy only from companies authorized in Pennsylvania and then only through properly authorized agents," the deputy insurance company advised.

The letters of solicitation bore the signature of Maurice E. Benson, vice president of the American Automobile Owner's Safety Association.

"If you are a careful automobile driver who has not had an automobile accident in the past 12 months, you are invited to join our association and encourage safe driving," they said.

"As a member, you will be entitled to apply through the association for an automobile owner's accident and hospital policy, with all of its benefits, issued by the Safety Drivers' Corp."

The letter said that for $5, the accident-less driver could get a six-month policy which would pay him $150 a month for 24 months if he is incapacitated because of the automobile accident, $300 for hospital expenses and $2,500 for his beneficiary in event of accident death.

The association's letterhead claims "over a quarter of a million safe driving members in the U.S. and Canada."

Alexander said that at the close of last year, the Safety Drivers Insurance Corp. had admitted assets of $22,656 and liabilities of $31,162.

It reported cash incomes of $310,181 in 1950 and expenses of $301,330, the official said. He added it paid $68,477 in claims.

CAST IN ROLES of Parents in the Stroudsburg High school senior class production of "Meet Me in St. Louis" are Art Jollowsky and Joan Chariton. The play opens a two-performance run tomorrow.

Three Student Productions To Be Presented This Week

With three opening nights in one week, the Stroudsburg and vicinity have taken on an atmosphere of theatrical hubbub seldom equalled by Broadway at the peak of its winter season.

First of the three "premieres" occurs tonight at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College when Mask and Zany unveils its production of the Robert McEnroe comedy "The Silver Whistle." The plot of this one deals with a young man who passes himself off on the elderly inmates of an "old folks home" as a man their own age who has found a secret elixir which keeps him perpetually young.

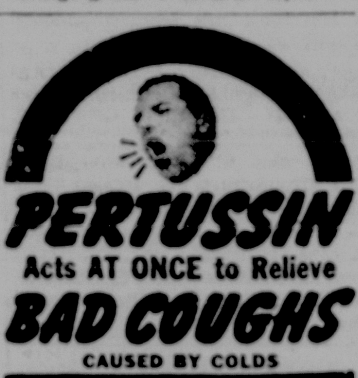

The hero of this unlikely piece is a young man with an equally unlikely name—Oliver Erwenter. Charles Buckwald is cast as Erwenter. "The Silver Whistle" is under the direction of Miss Katherine B. MacFarland, head of the college speech department.

While the cast of "Whistle" is settling down to the midway-point in the three-night run, students of Stroudsburg High's senior class will still be having opening night jitters.

"Meet Me in St. Louis," Sally Benson's dramatization of her own New Yorker short stories opens tomorrow night at the Stroudsburg High school auditorium for a two-night run.

"St. Louis" has had a financially successful history as short stories, play and motion picture—the latter released five years back, starring Judy Garland and Margaret O'Brien. The plot concerns the efforts of a group of children to keep their father from transferring from St. Louis to a better-paying job in New York.

Reports To Be Given At Meeting

Sciota — Members of the Hamilton Township Civic League are scheduled to hear a report tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Odd Fellows hall here, on remedial action, if any, taken by the township School board toward correcting insubordinate conditions at Polk Valley and Sciota schools.

The league, which has pressed consistently for action in the matter during the past two months, has also appointed a committee to investigate possible sites for a potential township consolidated school. This committee's report will also be heard at tomorrow night's meeting.

Officials of the league stress, however, that the committee is merely expressing a collective opinion on that site which it considers to be most desirable.

A committee on league constitution and by-laws will also submit its report at the meeting.

The night of the performance. All three are comedies — ranging from the "fantasy" of "Silver Whistle" to the "stop laughing father and give me your handkerchief, I feel like a good cry" melodrama of "Meet Me in St. Louis."

Down The SPORTS TRAIL

By Whitney Martin

New York (AP) — Theoretically, there is no middle ground between amateurism and professionalism. A man is either an amateur or a pro, although it's true some pros are amateur in performance, and vice versa.

If some admirer buys Joe Doakes a bottle of pop because he is Joe Doakes, the great golfer, and not just because he is Joe Doakes, period, in theory that makes Joe Doakes a pro, inasmuch as he is profiting through his skill, even if it is inadvertent.

That's the core of the amateur-professional debate, i. e., does the athlete profit through his athletic prowess? So where does that leave college athletes who receive special privileges, financially or otherwise, solely because they are athletes?

Personally, we see no harm in granting athletic scholarships, or even a minimum of financial aid, to athletes who are qualified students and intend to make the most of their opportunity to obtain a college education. Such aid permits many a worthy youngster to attend school who otherwise would have no opportunity.

We also can see that such aid makes the athlete a pro, in the strict sense of the word. The fact usually is politely overlooked, but that's the situation, nevertheless.

They will continue to call college football amateur football, regardless of the number of athletic scholarships awarded and other aid-for-athletes programs, and as long as they are going to do that they might as well do one of two things: Either draw up a new definition for amateur or bring out a new classification of athletes. Maybe something like college-amateur.

A college-amateur would be in a new and hazy no-man's-land between a true amateur and a professional.

He would receive aid in the form of athletic scholarships, subsistence funds or what not, but in accepting the aid it would be in the nature of a means to an end, as an end in itself.

These college-amateurs would be recognized as such, and with such recognition it would remove the hypocrisy connected with their present status.

When the manner of their coming to a school, and their rewards for so doing, are open books, so to speak, it would eliminate much of the criticism now aimed at schools, which are accused of giving the athletes a prime lesson in deceit by making them partners in a conspiracy of silence to hide their status.

There would be no stigma attached to the rating of semi-amateurs, or college-amateurs, and when a boy finished his schooling he would revert immediately to the pure amateur ranks, unless he turned outright professional.

In a way there would be an honor attached to the college-amateur designation, as it would mean that a boy was doubly blessed. He would necessarily have to have the mentality and the ambition to pursue his college courses, and also physical ability above the average.

Lou Little, gentlemanly and astute Columbia coach, made what seems to be a horse-sense suggestion Monday when he proposed that all schools have the same entrance requirements, so that an unqualified athlete could not move from school portal to school portal until he found one which would accept his sometimes extremely limited qualifications.

It's a Utopian idea, of course, but if all schools were conscientious in their desire to clean up the mess they readily would agree to admit only real students, under conditions which would give no one school an advantage.

Question: Should Louis Fight Again?

By John F. Sembower

(Central Press Correspondent)

Should Joe Louis re-enter retirement, or challenge Jersey Joe Walcott for the heavyweight title next February in Miami, as he intimates despite his knockout on the comeback trail by Rocky Marciano?

"Yes, continue fighting, Joe," says his punch-drunk pocketbook, reeling from blows by the tax collector.

"No, stop before you're hurt for good and all," warn the medics.

In Chicago, rather than Joe's adopted hometown of Detroit, the most momentous decision in the fabulous career of the Brown Bomber is likely to be made, because his income tax returns are on file here and the Illinois State Boxing Commission has banned as unfit the man many classify as the greatest fighter who ever lived.

Tax Collector Invites Joe To Try Again

Chicago — John Q. Public may not know what it is to climb into the prize ring and face the bat-liers Joe Louis has met, but he can understand why Joe came off second best on that annual March 15 tussle with the tax collector.

In a sense, Joe's income tax predicament is typical of every-one's trials and tribulations, especially if chunky deductions that were claimed in past years have come home to roost and must be paid along with the current tax bite.

That is exactly what happened to Joe Louis, and Collector John T. Jarecki here, who holds his return as a top-drawer deficiency case, won't predict what might be the outcome of a plea from Joe for a settlement of his back tax which has been as high as $200,000.

Theodore Jones, Louis' accountant, made a pilgrimage to the bureau with $40,000 after the Marciano debacle, but his face was so long that the bureau wonders if he will be back very soon. And Joe, like all the rest of us, has another big return staring at him.

He is the first to admit that he "lived a little high," but he has not been nearly as prodigal with the four and a half million he made as he might have been. The income tax wouldn't let him!

In the first place, his various managers got about half of all his winnings. Besides that, there has been a terrible attrition of his share from all his recent fights, so that when everything was paid, he had relatively little left.

Take that Ezzard Charles fight, for example. Louis "got" $102,840, representing a purse of $53,908, plus 40 per cent of TV rights. Thirty thousand went for his training camp, and one-third of the gross to his manager. That left a net of $40,000, from which current taxes took nearly half. Little was left to apply to back taxes.

And Louis explains that it was "the bad news" of the $200,000 income tax deficiency that caused him to abandon his retirement — nothing else. He had hoped that in one big fight he might square things! That "big fight" has turned into an illusive will-o-the-wisp.

How did Joe get into such a jam? The government admits it resulted from "honest mistakes." He tried to deduct about $70,000 of the $429,210 he paid to his ex-wife, Marva Trotter, who now is married to Capt. A. B. Spauld.

Army Practices Spread Formation

West Point, N.Y. (AP) — Col. Earl (Red) Blaik, coach of Army's crisscrossed Cadets, is reported preparing a spread formation to fling at Navy in the annual service game Saturday at Philadelphia.

The Army coach declined, understandably, yesterday to discuss the ploy he is cooking up for the Middles but he did declare:

"Navy has a big, strong ball club with wonderful personnel. It's not a team you can push around with straightaway football."

Word from the Military Academy is that Army's board of strategy feels that if it is to have a chance against the future Admirals it must bank on the element of surprise—a few quick, long passes that may go all the way.

Sala Scores TKO

Pittsburgh (AP) — Lee Sala, 167, of Donora, Pa., scored a ninth-round technical knockout over Jimmy Taylor, 158, of New York last night as he hit the comeback trail at the Flamingo arena here.

Sala was declared the winner when Taylor, on advice of his manager, George Gainsford, refused to come out for the ninth round.

ing of the Army Air Forces medical corps, as "management expenses," but the collector said six to that.

Then, while Joe was in the Army, he received advances from old Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century club totaling $143,000, and $62,000 from manager John Roxborough. When he made the money to pay back the advances, he owed tax on it. He tried to take the debts as "expenses of the heavy-weight championship" but that one didn't go over.

His own decreasing glamor has cut his earning power, as witness the disappointing $14,000 gross, plus only $1,000 for TV, that he got a year ago for the Brion fight in Chicago.

Louis' investments show possibilities, but have not panned out very well yet. He has tried apartment houses (which went to Marva in the divorce settlement), a brewery, a liquor distributorship in Detroit (with Sugar Ray Robinson), the inevitable restaurant, a soft drink concern (Joe Louis Punch), and the International Boxing club.

The last-named pays him $15,000 a year, and is about all he can count on for sure. Compare this with Jack Dempsey's reputed gross take of $5,750,000 for his career, about half since he retired.

When you consider that Joe gave $47,100.94 of the Buddy Baer purse to Navy Relief, and $36,146.00 from the winning of the Abe Simon went to Army Relief, both in 1942, it is small wonder that Uncle Sam hates to "go after" Joe, when generosity of spirit was his downfall.

The commission's examiner echoed Dr. Arthur H. Steinhaus,

Dr. Houston has examined the former champ twice in the last 18 months, and maintains that "his reaction time, reflexes and co-ordination have sadly deteriorated."

"No one knows at just what point one slips over the line into a mentally impaired condition," Dr. Houston commented grimly.

"But certainly it is reasonable to conclude that Louis now has absorbed enough blows on the head so that he could be considered on the threshold of danger."

Pirates To Do Or Die With Rickey

Pittsburgh (AP)—President John W. Galbreath of the Pittsburgh Pirates, denying reports of a rift among owners of the club, said yesterday "we're going to sink or swim with Branch Rickey."

The statement was in reply to a report there has been a crackup among the owners over loss of $300,000 the last season. The story was that Tom Johnson and Bing Crosby, Galbreath's partners, have had enough and want to get out and that a syndicate is bidding to buy the club.

Galbreath told the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in a telephone conversation from Columbus that it's all news to him, adding:

"Expect Good Results
"We're going to sink or swim with Branch Rickey. We hired him to build us a club. He can't do it overnight but we expect to have some good results within a few years. I can't understand how any such report could start."

Johnson, secretary of the club, admitted the financial loss but said there is no trouble about it.

"We've all put up our share," he said, "and Crosby, far from wanting to get out, said there would be more from him if we needed it."

Johnson said that Rickey, the club's general manager, does not own any stock in the outfit.

Caldwell Urges Stiff Penalty For Roughness; Kazmaier Injury Not Intentional: Dartmouth

Princeton, N. J. (AP)—As an aftermath of the rocking Princeton-Dartmouth game in which All-America halfback Dick Kazmaier suffered a broken nose, Princeton's coach, Charlie Caldwell yesterday urged sterner penalties for unnecessary roughness.

"Fifteen yards is a cheap assessment for slugging, kicking and other flagrant violations," the mild-mannered coach of the Nassau Tigris said. "What do 15 yards mean to a team if it can get the star player of the other side out of the game?"

"I intend to recommend that we restore the old penalty of half the distance to the goal line for such infractions and that such a violation bring automatic ejection from the game."

Caldwell said he was referring to college games generally and not the rough and tumble fray Saturday at Princeton in which 12 players on both teams had to be helped off the field and two suffered major injuries.

Kazmaier went out with a mild concussion and a broken nose after throwing a pass in the second period. Dartmouth's quarterback Jim Miller got a broken leg.

Caldwell said he hadn't viewed pictures of the game yet and wouldn't like to comment on it since "it would only add fuel to the fire and, besides, football has enough troubles anyway."

Robinson To Meet Young Or Durando

New York (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson set up another charity fight for a $1 purse yesterday when he agreed to meet Friday's Paddy Young-Ernie Durando winner in a non-title bout Jan. 25 at Madison Square Garden for the Heart fund.

"I want to help out Mrs. Impoliter—the mayor's wife," said Robinson. "She is interested in the Heart fund."

Robinson said he wouldn't risk his world middleweight title in the January scrap because it was "too close" to the proposed championship defense against Rocky Graziano Feb. 20 at Chicago.

Yale Elects Captain

New Haven, Conn. (AP)—Joseph Mitinger, a 20-year-old guard from Greensburg, Pa., was elected yesterday as captain of the Yale football team for the 1952 season. Mitinger succeeds Capt. Robert S. Spears, of Ypsilanti, Mich. He is the son of Robert B. Mitinger, a football star at Lafayette, a generation ago, and a nephew of Charlie Berry, American league umpire.

But the Daily Princetonian, the university's student paper, urged that a formal protest be sent to Dartmouth "expressing Princeton's general dissatisfaction with Saturday's foul playing."

Acknowledging that the Tigers also got a little rough, the student paper added:

"As far as Dartmouth was concerned it seemed that the object of winning had become secondary to that of 'getting' the Ivy League champions—with Dick Kazmaier their primary target."

The charge of intentional roughness was quickly denied by George Rambour, the 234-pound Dartmouth tackle who nailed Kazmaier on the play; Dartmouth Coach Tuss McLaughry and the game's referee, John Coles of Pittsburgh.

"I made the tackle," Rambour, a senior from Columbus, Neb., said yesterday in Hanover, N. H. "He was running to his right on an optional pass-or-play and I jumped up to try to block the pass as I rushed him."

"I probably came down on him pretty hard but it was a clean play. My arm may have hit him because I caught him high."

McLaughry said the game was hard-fought but "one of the best officiated games I have seen all year." He said he didn't see any roughness on the play on which Kazmaier was hurt.

Kazmaier himself said, "I don't remember anything about it. I don't remember who hit me or how."

Referee Coles said he was on top of the maneuver. He said Kazmaier went to his right on an optional run-or-pass play and was brought down hard, but added: "I saw no foul whatever."

Coles said the game became so rough that he went to both teams at the end of the third period and warned them: "There are 40,000 people who came out here to see a football game and not a free-for-all. Get out there and play football or you'll all be sitting on the bench."

"I think it brought results," Coles added. "The boys calmed down after that."

East Borough Receives Land For Playground

Transfer of a piece of property in East Stroudsburg, for use as a children's playground, was recorded yesterday at Monroe county court house.

The land, acquired by the Borough of East Stroudsburg, is located on the northeast side of Spangenberg Ave. The deed stipulates its use as for a playground only, to serve neighboring children. Grantors were Mr. and Mrs. George R. Spangenberg, East Stroudsburg.

Deed recording transfer of land owned by Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Dreher, Stroudsburg, to Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Kohl, Stroudsburg, RD2, also was recorded. The land, on Pocono creek, Stroud township, adjoins lands of the Tanite Co. and of the Wilkes-Barre and Eastern Railroad.

Other deeds recorded: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Henning, Stroud township, to Mr. and Mrs. Elwood C. German, Marshalls Creek, two Stroud township lots on Pine Ave. and Spruce St. in Grandview suburb.

Mr. and Mrs. David E. Kryniak, Mount Pocono, to Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Snow, Philadelphia, a plot in Mount Pocono on Pine Hill Rd., near the Easton-Beimont turnpike.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Le-soine, Stroud township, to Mr. and Mrs. William F. Arnold, East Stroudsburg RD2, a Stroud township plot adjoining lands of the Arnolds.

Correct Handling Of Guns Explained By McCool In Talk Before Barrett School

Cresco—At a special assembly of the Barrett Township school, Tom McCool, expert gunsmith of Henryville, told the students to point guns only at the thing they intended to kill. This and many other safety pointers were the text for his 40-minute talk.

Mr. McCool also had an assortment of guns from his collection. He pointed out the historical as well as the technical things of interest about each gun.

The students kept Mr. McCool busy answering questions following his talk. "What is the best rifle to use in deer and bear hunting?", "What is the caliber of the M-1 Carbine?", "How old should I be before I should go into the woods alone with a gun?" These are just a few of the many questions.

The assembly was sponsored by the Junior Historical club of Barrett Township High school. Mrs. Elizabeth Schaller is the faculty adviser. Shirley Imbt read the Bible, led in prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Ralph Williams, president of the Junior Historical club, presented Mr. McCool to the assembled school.

The assembly was timely, since next Monday, December 3 is the opening day of deer hunting season and Barrett Township school will be closed on this one day. Closing school on the opening day of the season is a local custom which has been followed for many years.
